

The Department of Theatre & Dance and Mary B. Martin School of the Arts proudly present

Jennifer Miller (Circus Amok, NYC)

Jennifer Miller is an American circus entertainer, writer, and professor at Pratt Institute in Brooklyn, New York. She is founder of legendary queer performance troupe Circus Amok.

Circus Amok: Queer Performance in the Pubic Sphere

Wednesday March 30, 12- 1pm, The Cave/Culp Center

Out of the clubs and into the streets. Circus Amok is New York City's one and only queer, political free circus spectacular. This circus has been touring the parks of New York City for 25 years with shows that are, madcap, melancholy, dangerous, dirty, ferocious and fabulous. Founder and director Jennifer Miller will discuss the history of this project, its influences and some of the tricks of the trade. How has the landscape for this work changed in the last 25 years as more queer representation has moved in the mainstream. Considering questions of queer assimilation and queer rage we ask, how do we create a queer utopic space that is fun for the whole family.
