Careers in Music

Graduates from the ETSU Department of Music now have careers performing and teaching across the United States and internationally. Our music education majors receive job offers to teach in some of the best secondary and elementary schools in the region. Our performance majors appear on major stages throughout the world. ETSU music students are accepted at top-tier graduate programs, including Juilliard, Peabody, Eastman, Cincinnati Conservatory of Music, Shenandoah Conservatory, and many more. ETSU music alumni lead in the performing arts as conductors, performers, and teachers.

The ETSU Department of Music is an All-Steinway School and is accredited by the National Association of Schools of Music (NASM). Faculty include Grammy-winning performers and conductors, as well as award-winning researchers.

Program Highlight

- The Department of Music is an All-Steinway school and regularly hosts a variety of internationally recognized artists who perform for and conduct workshops with our students.

Points of Interest

- The Department of Music offers over $500,000 annually in scholarships to music majors and non-majors. One of the scholarships, the Creative Arts Scholarship, waives all out-of-state fees. Students just need to be a part of one of the music department's ensembles in order to be eligible for scholarship money.
- Besides receiving individual lessons from internationally recognized professionals, students are able to join a variety of musical ensembles in all areas like vocal, instrumental, piano, and jazz. Many students win top prizes in regional, national and international competitions.
 - The department features an outstanding Pre-College Program for young musicians that offers private lessons in all instruments, piano, and voice as well as two chamber orchestras and choir.
 - The department houses the Suzuki Institute of Flute Studies, which is open to students of all ages who are interested in pursuing flute studies.
